Readers and Contributors

The production of the Hill and Valley Magazine is made possible through a combination of the articles from our contributors, our advertisers, our printers, finance team and a group of coordinators creating the magazine 10 times each year.

In order to assist the magazine coordinators we ask that articles are submitted online (not by email). For more information please go online to the Magazine Contributors area of www.hillandvalley.co.uk.

Business advertisers please contact Sue Robertson - 01285 720683 or via the Advertisers form on <https://hillandvalley.co.uk/advertisers/>

The magazine coordinator for November was Sue Robertson (01285 720683) and for December will be Julie Young (01285 720398).

Please submit all articles and adverts before midday on the 15th of the month using the online system.

Helen's Letter

Revelation 21:4 "He will wipe away every tear from their eyes, and death shall be no more, neither shall there be mourning, nor crying, nor pain anymore, for the former things have passed away".

November brings us a sobering time. We begin the month with All Saints and All Souls days, a time of remembering those saints who have given examples of how to be human and yet godly, and times of remembering those of our own loved ones we have lost from this life.

We also remember with gratitude those who have given their lives for our peace, dying in conflict, serving their loved ones and their country. We remember their sacrifice and the freedom we have gained because of them.

As our thoughts turn to those who have died, we remember because for many, life has changed, not ended. When it comes to grief there are dates in the calendar, that can be difficult to bear. Sometimes it's not the date itself, it's the run up to the date. No matter how much we prepare ourselves, physically or emotionally, our grief can catch us up unaware.

Memories make us feel comforted, they fill us with joy, or make us feel sad.

It is a natural process because we all love and therefore, we all grieve.

However, let us not forget that there is someone we can call on in the depths of despair.

Just like we take time to remember, the bible also calls us to remember, Godis a God of mercy.

Our God has all the attributes that we need, depending on our circumstance. He is Hope, Love, Redeemer, and Judge.

He offers grace for those who ask. He forgives, provides comfort, rest and solace.

He is our Father, Saviour and Creator.

As the nights draw in, and the trees start to look bare, it is a reminder that nature's life cycle is taking place.

And as the days shorten and the light fades quickly, light a candle so you can be reminded that there is hope that lies beneath our winter.

Hope for a brighter light and shoots of new life, that will break through as spring comes again.

Remembrance unites all people of all faiths, cultures and backgrounds, but let us not forget it is also deeply personal, because we are individuals. But let the Hope of eternity give us all strength. Amen

Proceeds in aid of The Friends of Saint Andrew's Church, Chedworth (FoStA)

After years of trying, it has FINALLY happened!!! Chedworth Pre-School now have our own space within the heart of the village and from Tuesday 1st November 2022 we become part of St. Andrew's Primary School!

Following a few setbacks, we will be moving in and running from School House from Monday 7th November! All of this has only been possible due to so much support from the village and we are so very grateful to you all!

With your very kind financial donations along with Chedworth Trust, The Allotment Charity, Chedworth Community Lands Charity, and Pete Heaps' golf day – not to mention a wing walk and lots of other fundraising (some far more sedate!!!) this project would have not happened!

I must also thank everyone who has volunteered their valuable time to be on the Pre-School Committee – without a Chairperson, Treasurer or Secretary there would not have been a Pre-School! Currently, these positions are taken by Sarah Wembridge, Amy Watts, and Tina Buck. I do know that over the past 46 years, several more names would be added to this!!

I would also like to thank Chedworth Village Hall for allowing us to use this amazing village facility for so long! It has provided many happy memories over the years for so many of the village children and staff.

We would like you to come and take a look at our new home on Saturday 10th December 10 – 12, please do pop in and say hello!

Another date for your diary is our fabulous Christmas Fayre; Saturday 26th November, 11:00 – 14:00 at Chedworth Village Hall; fun and shopping for all of the family!

St. Andrew's C of E Primary School

It has been an incredibly busy term at St Andrew's C of E. The new reception pupils have settled fantastically and are enjoying exploring, playing and learning. The rest of the school have enjoyed their topic, 'Charming Chedworth', where they have been learning about local Geography, the impact of the Romans and developing sketching skills in art.

We have taken children to Sherborne woods to go orienteering, which was great fun. The children worked in small groups to navigate the woods and find letters to make up words. The children behaved brilliantly and had the best time running around in nature.

As well as orienteering, we took a team of Year 3,4,5 and 6 pupils to The Cotswold School for a cross country running competition. Our pupils were amazingly perseverant in each race, which were not easy or short courses!

Volunteer Readers

We are always on the look-out for volunteer readers to come and support in school.

If you think you have the time and commitment, please email the school office admin@st-andrews.gloucs.sch.uk and we will send a volunteer application pack.

PTA Messages

The PTA will be holding a joint Christmas Fayre with Pre-School on the 26th

November 2022. Please contact Jenny Lowe, or Ruth Carnie if you would be interested in a stall or think you can help in anyway.

Mrs V Brosch

At the end of October, we said goodbye to our wonderful Mrs Brosch. Mrs Brosch has taught at St Andrew's since January 2016 in a PPA role. Mrs Brosch has contributed to the life of the school over her many years of service. As well as being subject leader in MFL, music and Science, she has also spent many years as a staff governor. Mrs Brosch will be hugely missed by all of the staff, parents and pupils and we wish her every success in her next endeavours.

Open Morning

We are having our next open morning on Wednesday 2nd November from 9am-11am. If you have a child looking for a place in September 2023, or in any other year group, please come along and see our wonderful school. You will have opportunity to have a tour around the school as well as meeting the new, interim Headteacher, Mrs Jo Smith.

service next year and by September 2023 at the latest. This will mean some residents will have to upgrade their mobile phones. The change is to facilitate the roll out of 5G services. 4G provision will not be affected.

Rendcomb Airfield

The Parish Council was dismayed to hear that Cotswold District Council's deliberations on the change of conditions relating to flying from Rendcomb Airfield have been postponed yet again and a decision is now scheduled for December. The decision has been pending since March 2021.

School Bus

We have been working with other stakeholders to reverse the changes to transport to the Cotswold School. Pick up time has been moved to 7.35am from the circa 8 am which has been the usual time for the past 60 years, and children have to wait for a considerable period between drop off at Bourton and the commencement of the school day. The cold, dark, icy mornings will exacerbate this problem. Following representations, the evening service has now been improved and we are hoping that the evening service issue will be resolved by the time you read this.

Generic bus like Harvey's used for school runs in the 1950's

Ted Broughton

It is with sadness that we report the passing of Ted Broughton, a longstanding resident of the village, who died peacefully on 7th October aged 91 after a long illness. He was for many years active in the village, being a founder member of both the Tennis Club and the Chedworth Society, of which he was Chairman for 17 years. Many will remember fondly the trips he arranged for residents out of the village, various lectures and the annual dinner. He was a regular contributor to the Hill and Valley magazine with his interesting articles from bygone days, relevant to our local area. He is survived by his wife, Anthea, who now lives Hampshire, and their 2 daughters, Min and Sally.

Vacancy

We still have a vacancy for a Councillor to serve until May 2023. Please see our website or contact the clerk on clerk@chedworthpc.org.uk.

New Village Website

Julie Young has kindly set up a new Chedworth Village Website to provide information and links to village organisations such as Parish Council, sports clubs, and village organisations. The web address is www.chedworth.org.uk so please visit and help push it up the algorithms, as for many searches Chedworth (UK) has dropped off the first page of Google search and into cyber oblivion.

Oil

A curate took his rather old car to the garage for an oil change. After the mechanic had briefly inspected under the bonnet, he turned to the young man and said: "If I were you, I'd keep the oil and change the car."

What happens then?

A little boy was taken Christmas shopping by his mother. He watched the escalator going down for several minutes, and then asked with concern: "What happens when the ground floor gets full of steps?"

Don't cross the line

There is a line on the ocean where you lose a day after crossing it. There's also a line on all busy roads, where you can lose a lot more if you cross it.

October Meeting

We were very grateful to the village hall for the heating last Wednesday evening, as we went through our brief WI business and then watched, on the wonderful big screen the ever intriguing (as long as you are not the one trying to sort out the IT) routine minor problems of setting up a zoom meeting so that a cyber protection officer from the Gloucestershire Economic Crime Team, could talk us through the basics of self-protection against the ever evolving wave of cyber crime fraud.

It was a fairly sobering experience listening to the really nasty things that some criminals will do to extract money from people via their emails, texts and phone calls. Fortunately, the police officer had huge knowledge not just of the possible crimes but gave us an understanding of the mentality behind the crimes and a good list of ways to protect ourselves! I will do my best to share some of the most useful points and ideas.

The fraudsters like to contact people when they are vulnerable (recently bereaved, busy planning a major event etc.). They may offer a prize or reward, or they may wish to panic you into hasty action. They will then try to build trust with you in order to gain your compliance, so that you will do what they ask – usually ending with them gaining a lot of your money!

Worryingly they often claim to be the police!

If it is via an email: Known as phishing - try to take time to check emails, any that look slightly odd, badly spelt or ungrammatical, or worry you - phone a friend or the organisation it might claim to be from (NOT using any number in the email) – NEVER click on a link or dial a phone number you don't recognise. If you think it is a fraudulent email, you can do your bit and forward it to report@phishing.gov.uk so that they can gain a true picture of the extent of these emails.

If it is a phone call: if you don't recognise the number let it go through to answer phone and then monitor who it is. If the fraudster does start talking to you and tries to persuade you that they are from the police/bank etc. remember that there are NO Police Safe Accounts and the police will NEVER come to your home to take money from you. If in any doubt hang up and once again phone a friend and talk it through with them.

To report a fraudulent phone call phone Action fraud on 0300-123-2040.

If it is a text: if you don't recognise it, delete it or if you can easily see that it is a fraudulent text forward it to Report text on 7726. BEWARE of the 'Hi mum.' 'Hi gran ...' scams which often try the line of 'You won't recognise this number but my phone has broken, I need money for a new one/ I am in trouble I need money ...'. Try calling family back on the numbers you already have – however scary or worrying the texts seem!

Online shopping: (I am definitely guilty here!) read feedback, always use a credit card not a debit card. Try to make sure that the sites use the closed padlock to show secure connections. Then be cautious with emails that arrive apparently from sites that you have used.

Routine protection:

- Go for strong passwords (12 character or more), and 2 step verification – even on your social media pages. Boring but better than having your accounts taken over and used by fraudsters to scam all your friends!
- Consider using a password manager system.
- Keep updating your computer and phone to get the latest security updates.
- Back up information on your computer either to the cloud or a removable storage device.
- Don't use public Wi-Fi for sensitive or financial tasks.
- Limit access to your social media accounts to friends only.

Finally, if you have been scammed, or suspect you have, and it can happen to anyone of whatever age, please however awful and embarrassed you feel, please contact the police – IT IS NOT YOUR FAULT!! You have done nothing wrong; these fraudsters are clever, unscrupulous cruel people out to make easy money from anyone having a vulnerable, stressful or just a busy moment.

There was a lot more information and the Gloucestershire police cyber protection team are fortunately always happy to talk to any organisations or groups to help keep us all safer from scammers. I really hope everyone reading this can say "I know all this and do it!"

You can also understand how much we all needed a cup of tea and delicious cakes after all that, and fortunately that is exactly what we had.

Chedworth Environment Group

Remember this logo?

The Chedworth Environment Group, or “ChEG” as it was popularly known, was formed in response to overwhelming support for the environment – both local and global – expressed in consultations for the 2008 Parish Plan. It was fully constituted with a remit to address the issues of Biodiversity, Stewardship, Local food production, Green energy (including renewable and efficient energy systems), Recycling and “Sustainable Chedworth”.

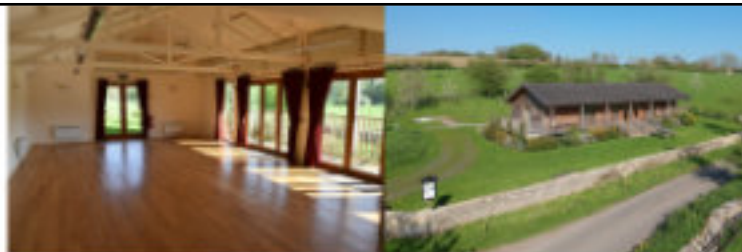

While we had only limited success with getting landowners to maintain their stretch of the Stream to improve flowrates and biodiversity, we restored habitat, held events to raise awareness of our local environment, its flora and fauna and devoted a day to demonstrations of improving home insulation and energy efficiency. The current PC-led roadside verge improvement project was initiated by ChEG.

ChEG may have been moribund for the past few years but enthusiasm for its ideals remains strong in the community. It even has a bank account with a few hundred pounds in it which the current custodians would like to see used for other community environment projects.

Please post on NextDoor if you would like to see ChEG revived or have suggestions for appropriate use of its remaining funds.

By Anton Chekhov, in a version by Anya Reiss • Directed by Jamie Lloyd Emilia Clarke (Game of Thrones) makes her West End debut in this 21st century retelling of Anton Chekhov's tale of love and loneliness.

A young woman is desperate for fame and a way out. A young man is pining after the woman of his dreams. A successful writer longs for a sense of achievement. An actress wants to fight the changing of the times. In an isolated home in the countryside, dreams lie in tatters, hopes are dashed, and hearts broken. With nowhere left to turn, the only option is to turn on each other.

Filmed live in London's West End with a cast including Tom Rhys Harries (White Lines), Daniel Monks (The Normal Heart), Sophie Wu (Fresh Meat) and Indira Varma (Game of Thrones).

Chedworth Guides & Brownies

Chedworth Guides and Brownies have had a busy month; working towards their First Aid badge, which involved some alarmingly realistic fake wounds; practising miming skills and making the most of the last light evenings with mini-campfires in kitchen colanders and outside games. The girls made their promises and celebrated with toasted marshmallows and smores. We are very grateful to have been joined by a new unit helper which means that we can keep running meetings!

Guides is for girls from 10 - 14 and Brownies is for girls from 7 - 10.

CLUB NEWS

Action on the tennis courts continues as autumn settles in; club sessions, coaching and competitions are in place now – do come and join for some exercise and a social boost! We're lucky that our newly surfaced and painted courts drain well and lights allow play into the darker evenings. See below the various activities planned.

On a sadder note, we remember fondly Ted Broughton who has died recently. Ted, was a stalwart of the early years of Hill & Valley Tennis Club, being a founder member and its first Chairman. We offer from our wider membership, both past and present, our gratitude and kindest thoughts to Anthea and Ted's family and friends.

Ted was a stalwart of the early years of Hill & Valley Tennis Club, being a founder member and its first Chairman. He was instrumental in getting the courts built and was a genius with obtaining available grants and fundraising to establish the club facilities. The centrepiece of club activities was, and remains today some forty years later, the annual summer Coln Valley Tournament of which Ted was an energetic organiser along with his wife Anthea. Years ago we shared many a glass of whisky late into the evenings before the event trying to match groups, arrange seedings, not to mention 'matchmaking' (and avoidance of 'unfortunate' meetings of former partners!). He delighted in the sublime, and the many ridiculous situations that arose.

Ted was wonderful company, and maintained a permanent twinkle in his eye; and it should be mentioned he was a very good tennis player! His hard work and talented contribution to the club established the strong foundations that benefit our thriving membership today.

We offer from our wider membership, both past and present, our gratitude and kindest thoughts to Anthea and Ted's family and friends.

The Seven Tuns

Straight talking with Simon

The past two and a half years have been the toughest imaginable for the hospitality industry. Almost every day now we see headlines about financial pressures from all sides and record closures for pubs.

Chedworth has had a pub for nearly 200 years - and today it's an award winning one, recently described by restaurant critic Giles Coren as 'gorgeous' in his enthusiastic and complimentary review for The Times Magazine. But how is the Seven Tuns weathering the post-Covid storm? We ask Simon Willson-White.

Simon, I read that pubs in England and Wales are currently closing at the rate of 50 a month and numbers are now at a record low of less than 40,000. We tend to think of The Cotswolds and its village pubs as being pretty resilient when it comes to downturns in the economy - is there as much cause for concern here at the Tuns as the headlines suggest?

I'm afraid there is. I'm not going to pull any punches, the latest inflation will be the nail in the coffin for many pubs around the country, and the Cotswolds is not immune.

Like so many other pubs, we were seriously affected by Covid, despite the huge effort we made to encourage customers in between the various lockdowns, and other initiatives we took locally which were pretty well supported at the time. But we've been making a loss every month since inflation took hold - which we can only do for so long before sadly we will be forced to consider our position in the market.

So it is as serious here as elsewhere in the UK?

Yes it's serious, but we are totally committed to finding a way through if we can. Running costs that have increased astronomically and footfall reduced by 25 per cent compared with this time last year are not an easy combination to deal with. Many people who stayed home during lockdown still continue to drink at home to save money. It's not surprising given the favourable tax treatment on alcohol sales at supermarkets compared with pubs, and the current squeeze on household budgets.

The pandemic has also resulted in staff shortages and increased labour costs across the country which have been a real headache for all publicans. We had to start closing on Sunday nights and Mondays to be able to staff correctly, but naturally we are still missing the revenue from those periods, and just recently we reduced both our closing times and kitchen opening times to cut down our electricity and gas bills.

Just on bills, exactly how much more are you paying for energy, food and beverage these days?

Well energy bills are the most shocking - electricity is up by over 860 per cent since we took the pub on just over four years ago, gas by 50 per cent. Then - as Tom will tell you - meat and dairy prices have increased by 50 per cent, fish and seafood by 40 per cent, fruit and vegetables by 25 per cent. Our selection of wonderful wines imported from around the world now costs us more, especially so when sterling is weak. We are completely unable to pass these costs on and still be considered value for money, so are just trying to minimise our losses. To make a profit we should be charging around £9.00 a pint, which naturally isn't going to happen!

On top of rising costs, in April the government will remove the 50 per cent discount on business rates introduced as a Covid measure and which is worth about £7,500 a year to us. So along with thousands of other establishments we hope for a policy change on that.

Pretty sobering figures - but Simon I've been in on a Thursday evening and almost every table has been full and there's been a good buzz in here. I know weekends are busy - it seemed like life was continuing as normal?

Well, that's what we do. But we need people now to come for lunch or dinner from Tuesday to Thursday on a regular basis. January and February are typically our quietest months when we appreciate more than ever the support of our local clientele. We continue to market ourselves further afield, and great reviews and word of mouth are always fantastic, but we would love to welcome more local people from Chedworth, Yanworth and Stowell, Coln St Dennis and Coln Rogers.

The Seven Tuns

We are the only pub in the Chedworth and District benefice, yet – and, I hate to say it – less than four per cent of our revenue currently comes from the village itself. And of that four per cent it's pretty much the same people who come all the time. That's a huge majority of residents who have yet to find out what a lovely pub they have here!

I'm surprised as I imagine most people would think of this as a quintessential village pub. It's one of the reasons people say Chedworth is among the most desirable villages in the Cotswolds! It's unthinkable that it might not be here in future.

It is, but that's what could happen, and quite possibly in the next six months. With 50 pubs closing every month at present I doubt there'd be a queue of people looking to take the Tuns on if we have to close. It would be a brave person to take over anything in hospitality at the moment.

Some of the Tuns' team of five full and four part time staff

And there would certainly be a knock-on effect in the locality. We source everything we can locally, which obviously contributes to the local economy. We employ five full time and four part time staff. And, property owners will know that house prices would drop by 10 per cent if Chedworth lost its pub – studies have shown that villages without pubs struggle to achieve the premiums of neighbouring villages that have one – ask any local estate agent.

I know that you are deeply committed to using local, sustainably produced, ethical, quality ingredients and produce that, above all, are fresh. Can you give an idea of what and who?

I can give you so many examples! Obviously our fish and seafood isn't that local but it's delivered fresh every day except Sunday from Cornwall. But for pretty much everything else, yes, those are our criteria for sourcing, and keeping it local is our priority when reaching out to new suppliers. Tom and I feel hugely proud when we can put Chedworth in front of a menu item! We offer beer brewed by Jamie Cowell at Elements Brewery, we buy free range eggs from Anne Baxter and our flowers are from Karen Scott at Pancake Hill Flowers - all Chedworth residents; our locally sourced bespoke meats are supplied by Ruby & White in Bristol, and the beef for our wagyu burgers is farmed at Cotswold Wagyu near Tetbury. Even our gin and vodkas are supplied by small local companies. I could go on!

Proof of how much of an asset rural pubs are to village communities and the reach that the Tuns has into the rural economy. Is there anything else you would like to say to the local community?

I'd just say that if you've not yet been through the door, come and experience our very special Tuns hospitality for yourself! And I'd like to thank all the local residents who supported us both during and in between lockdowns and our wonderful regulars who come back time and again - because they know that we are all about providing the best quality food, drink and ambience for miles around, that doesn't cost the earth.

Everything I own is tied up in this pub. We've not taken any money out since we took it on but we have re-invested everything to try and give the village and the surrounding communities a pub to be proud of.

Pints have been pulled here for the best part of 200 years, but right now we need to be busy with customers both drinking and eating on weekdays and evenings, not just weekends, if it is to survive for the next generation. And we want that more than anything.

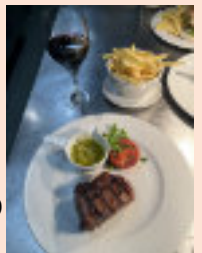

I'm sure many people will agree! Thanks for being so frank and good luck to you and the team for these next crucial weeks.

Claire Watson

Coming up - seasonal menus and our mouth-watering steak offer!

You'll find plenty on our menu that reflects the time of year and will continue to change over the weeks ahead. Come in for a cosy and convivial lunch in front of a real fire, or enjoy some of our fantastic wines and craft beers over a wonderful dinner. We always serve house wines that are exceptional and priced sensibly – try our Cabernet Bonarda blend or the Chenin Blanc – both delicious and priced at £22.00 a bottle.

We've a special offer for November and early December – Two delicious aged rump steaks and chips with two glasses of house wine for £45.00 on the first and third Wednesday of the month! Book now for the 2nd and 16th of November and the 7th and 21st of December through the website or leave a message on 01285 720630.

And finally, how about this for an endorsement of what he called 'a very good' pub:

"I had a fencepost of pork belly with perfect, light, golden crackling, apple sauce and terrific cauliflower cheese (cheddary, fruity, sexily blackened in patches)". Giles Coren, Times Magazine, September 2022

Cotswold Landscapes - Sherborne

Sherborne is situated about three miles east of Northleach and to the north of the A40. It is a large parish of 4,567 acres, roughly rectangular in shape. The origin of its name is "scireburne", meaning a clear stream or brook and was first mentioned in the Domesday Book of 1086. The Sherborne Brook runs through the parish from west to east at the 400-foot level and joins the River Windrush on the eastern boundary of the parish. The village is linear, extending more than a mile along the southern bank of the Sherborne Brook. The road may have been part of the original Oxford-Gloucester road before the road along the ridge south of the village (now the A40) was turnpiked under an Act of 1751.

Most of the parish was originally owned by Winchcombe Abbey, who had extensive land holdings in Gloucestershire. The abbots had a house near the site of the present Sherborne House. Edward 1 stayed at Sherborne in 1382 and Queen Elizabeth 1 for six days in 1592. Winchcombe Abbey had a large sheep enterprise and was involved in both the production and marketing of wool, when the Cotswold wool trade was so important in the Middle Ages. A master shepherd and two under shepherds were based at Sherborne, which was central to the management of the abbey flock.

After Easter each year the Abbot and his servants moved to the village for a month to supervise the shearing, weighing and packaging of the wool clip, which involved many of the villagers. The arable land produced wheat, peas, beans, oats and dredge corn for beer. Most of these crops went to feed the sheep. The Sherborne Brook was suitable for washing the wool and its meadow could support 2-3,000 sheep. The wool was sold to Italian merchants, some of whom personally visited Sherborne. These buyers would probably have taken the wool back to Italy via Southampton.

From about 1474 the manor of Sherborne was farmed out to private operator who farmed a large acreage, collected rents from the tenants and was responsible for the abbey's sheep when they were at Sherborne. At the Dissolution, the Crown appropriated the Sherborne Estate which was bought in 1551 for £3,000 in six instalments of £500 plus £40 rent by Thomas Dutton, who was surveyor of crown lands for Gloucestershire. The Duttons were of Norman extraction and remained lords of the manor until the death of the last Lord Sherborne in 1985.

During the English Civil War, Sir John Dutton was a supporter of King Charles 1. Subsequently he became a friend of Oliver Cromwell, who pleaded on his behalf to the Court of Sequestrations and was only fined £6,000, which was very manageable for someone who was considered one of the richest men in England. Over the years the Duttons acquired other land, including the Bibury Estate of over 3,000 acres and it was rumoured that at one time Lord Sherborne could ride from the Manor to Cheltenham without leaving his own lands - in all a distance of seventeen miles! In the 1920's some properties had to be sold to pay death duties, further sales took place later in the century.

The last resident Lord Sherborne, Charles, died in 1982 and left no issue. He left the main part of the estate to the National Trust and two tenanted farms at Aldsworth were sold. The title passed to his nephew Ralph who died in 1985 also without issue and there being no near male relatives, it marked the end of the Dutton dynasty. This had supposedly been predicted by the curse imposed by the abbots of Winchcombe in the seventeenth century when the then Lord Sherborne had the site of the church moved by ten feet to allow for the rebuilding of Sherborne House in the 1650's.

Sherborne House is situated near the centre of the village, adjacent to the church overlooking parkland. It was built for Thomas Dutton after he bought the Manor of Sherborne in 1551. John Dutton rebuilt the house in the 17th century, the builder and probably the designer being Valentine Strong of Tayton, whose family were renowned stone masons and builders. The stone was reputedly quarried at Windrush. The house was rebuilt by the second Lord Sherborne in about 1830, utilising much of the original stone. The house was the seat of the Lords Sherborne until 1940, when it was occupied by the army. After the Second World war it was used by a private school, then empty for five years, then used by an educational organisation, followed by a religious group before being sold in 1981 and converted to flats.

The other estate building of note is Lodge Park which is situated to the south of the A40 and was built in the mid-17th century as a hunting lodge. The designer was probably local, possibly Valentine Strong. In the early 19th century, Lodge Park was drastically altered to convert it into a house and was the home of the last Lord Sherborne. Most of the houses and cottages in the village are in the traditional Cotswold style, built in the 17th century to the 19th century. The majority of the cottages in the eastern end of the village were rebuilt in the 19th century as a model village consisting of groups of terraces of two, four and six including some almshouses.

Cotswold Landscapes - Sherborne

St Mary Magdalene Church is immediately beside Sherborne House. Before the 14th century the church may have been sited near the east end of the village, which may explain the Norman doorways and other details incorporated in a 19th century cottage. The tower and spire are late c13 or early c14 and was altered in the mid c18 and then rebuilt in the mid c19 in the style of the 13th century.

The interior of the church contains many ornate marble monuments to the Duttons including one to Princess Bariatinsky, Frances Mary Dutton who died in 1807, the daughter of the first Lord Sherborne. She had married Prince Ivan Bariatinsky, a privy councillor to the emperor of Russia who was posted to the Russian embassy in London in 1801. They married in 1806. The Prince was then appointed Russian ambassador to Bavaria, they stopped in Berlin but had to flee in an open sledge as Napoleon's armies invaded. The Princess, who was heavily pregnant, gave birth in a hut. She fell ill after the cold and stressful journey and died on 21st March. She was buried in Sherborne Church in May 1807.

Her daughter, Catherine Elizabeth was brought up by her grandparents, Lord and Lady Sherborne. The Prince returned to Europe and probably never saw his daughter again. Princess Catherine Elizabeth, initially took part in society but her mental health gradually deteriorated and she lived out her life in seclusion in a house in Muswell Hill London. Sadly, there was litigation during her lifetime between her Russian relatives and the Duttons over her care and will. She was buried in the family vault, Sherborne Church.

Sherborne was traditionally an estate and agricultural community. In Sybil Longhurst's book "Sherborne" there is a photograph of the W.H. Limbrick and Sons Home Farm staff in 1954. On this large mixed arable and stock farm there were 30 employees. Today on Home Farm, there is only the farm tenant and an employee, illustrating just how much farming has changed in the intervening period.

The village is fortunate in still having a primary school, village meeting room and a thriving village shop/post office and tea room. There are several public rights of way and permitted paths in the parish from which good access and views can be obtained of the village and the surrounding area.

Golf Day at Monmouth

Firstly I would like to thank all the players and everyone who sponsored or who gave a raffle prize. I'm amazed at the support that this village keeps giving me to help raise money for charity, especially as things are very tight at the moment. We played Texas Scramble in both morning and afternoon and this year's winners are as follows:

Morning

3rd – Chris Miles, Nathan Heaps, John Sissons and Tim Gleeve

2nd – Jack Robson, Daniel Heaps, Jeff Wheeldon and Andy King

1st – Dick Handy, Tom Horrell, Sam Price and Nick Handy

Nearest the pin – Daniel Heaps

Longest drive – Nathan Heaps

Afternoon

3rd – John Sissons, Daniel Rutherford, Jamie Cowell and Andy King

2nd – Jeff Wheeldon, Tim Gleeve, Craig Hughes and Alistair Booth

1st – Sam Price, Tom Horrell, Daniel Heaps and Nathan Heaps

Nearest the pin – Sam Price

Longest drive – Jack Robson

Well done to all of them.

I have been organising this golf day for the past 20 years and to mark this occasion we thought that because Monmouth Golf Club have been very supportive and kind to us we purchased a bench which is made out of recycled plastic with a plaque that says "Donated by Chedworth Golf Club 2022". This bench will not require any maintenance at all and will be placed on the 14th tee.

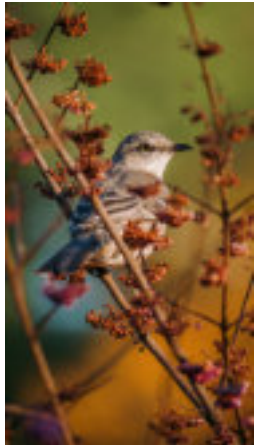

The remainder of monies raised will be given to Chedworth Pre-School. The amount raised this year was a fantastic £3,057. Once again, thank you to everyone involved in making this such a brilliant day.

Next year's date is Friday 8th September 2023. I look forward to seeing you all again.

Your Gardening Tips for Nov 2022

It really does seem to have been a bumper year for apples! The hedgerow trees are laden which will hopefully give the birds plenty to feed on, if the squirrels do not get them, after pinching most of the nuts from the walnut trees! Check the classes for next year's Show in late June as decisions for early sowing either for overwintering or early spring will need to be made now.

- If you are following Monty Don's advice he will no doubt be talking about protecting vulnerable plants or lifting them and bringing them inside. So, if vulnerable plants have to be left in outdoor containers wrap them with fleece, hessian or bubble wrap. For example, if your cannas are not in pots now is a good time to lift them, cut down to about 30cm above the base and put into large pots with spent compost before storing inside which gives them time to establish some roots before the colder weather sets in. Alternatively, they can be overwintered by being cut down to 15cm after the first frost, covered with plastic bin liners on top of which should be deep layers of insulation in the form of manure, compost of wood chips. This is the time to lift and divide other overgrown clumps of herbaceous perennials.
- Continue to clear up fallen leaves from lawns and borders regularly to make compost. Best shredded through the mower or blower/shredder to help break down the leaf structure and add manure!
- Cover brassicas against pigeon attack, but be ready to lift the netting if snow is forecast!
- If you are not clamp storing root vegetables for the winter, keep some in the ground as parsnips especially improve with frosting. Keep checking for slug or mice damage.
- If not already done, tie grease bands around trunks of fruit trees against winter moth damage.
- Prune roses to prevent wind-rock, and clear away fallen leaves to prevent black spot.
- Plant tulips, and this your last chance to plant winter bedding plants such as wallflowers, forget-me-nots, primulas and pansies.
- Keep weeds in check. Mulch with compost, and where space allows, cover the ground with a membrane to suppress weeds. Check for slug eggs.
- Cut down faded herbaceous perennials and ornamental grasses.
- Lift and store pelargoniums, dahlias, cannas and tuberous bedding begonias.

- There is still time in early November, to sow broad beans, winter lettuce, garlic, onions and spinach for early cropping next year. Plant winter lettuce in your used grow bags in the greenhouse.
- Plant bare rooted raspberry canes, either summer or autumn fruiting varieties, from now until February
- Divide rhubarb plants once dormant.
- Prune apple and pear trees over the winter until February, but leave plum trees until the summer to avoid silver leaf fungus attack.
- Deciduous hedging can be planted bare rooted, throughout the winter, but best when the soil is not too hard. Guard against squirrels and deer gnawing the bark.
- This a good time to plant roses, avoiding areas where roses have previously grown.
- Shrubs normally pruned hard in the spring, such as Buddleja, Cornus and Lavatera, can be cut back by half, to prevent wind rock and neaten their appearance.
- If lawns need to mowed, set the cutter 1.5 inches above the ground to avoid stressing the grass. After the final mow, clean and dry the mower and drain the fuel because it will go sour. Service the mower!
- Clean out water butts, as they will soon fill up again, but be careful to drain any with taps if deep freezing weather is forecast, to avoid the tap joint cracking.
- Do not apply fertiliser in the garden as will not be taken up by plants.

- Cover temporarily unused ground with a membrane or black polythene to prevent nutrients being washed away and rogue seeds settling to germinate.
- If you are thinking of creating a wild life pond, however big or small, now is the time to do so giving it time to settle over winter before the breeding season for many wild life species.
- Hopefully all those who wanted it, have had enough compost to last until the spring when another delivery will be ordered.

If you want to hear what your HORTSOC committee has been up to and have a say in the proposal to change our name to the Chedworth Gardening Club, come to the AGM at the Seven Tuns on Tuesday 8th November at 7.30pm.

Mountain Conquered!

Scafell Pike Climb in Aid of The British Heart Foundation

A huge thank you to those of you who have kindly sponsored me in my climbing endeavour by making a donation to The British Heart Foundation!

I am pleased to report that the sun shone down on the day and with Mr Peake as my walking companion, it was a privilege to reach the WW1 memorial at the summit.

To date, I have raised just over £2000.

Should anyone still wish to make a donation to The British Heart Foundation, I include the link: <https://www.justgiving.com/fundraising/felicity-peake>

On a related note, and as Edmund Hillary once said, next time you feel like you have a metaphorical or actual mountain to climb, remember, “It is not the mountain we conquer but ourselves.”

S PETER & S PAUL NORTHLEACH

Hello Friends and Neighbours.

The days are getting shorter and the nights are cooler. I was afraid this was going to happen! We've even seen frost here twice on the hill, which wasn't ideal for our pumpkins, or our vines, but we've managed to make it through.

We harvested over 400 pumpkins this year - they are gorgeous (and delicious!) and you can buy them locally at Upton Smokery Farm Shop, The Cotswold Guy, and Diddly Squat Farm Shop.

Harvest this year in the UK has started and many friends have said it was a fantastic and large crop this year. In Napa Valley, we are almost finished with a comparably fantastic harvest.

Our vineyard here in Fossebridge won't have grapes until next year, so we are crossing fingers for a similar next year. We have lost about 32 vines since we planted them in mid May, out of 3,640. That is normal, but it is a huge disappointment every time I pull up a rabbit guard (the green boxes surrounding the vines) and see a brown, shrivelled vine. We have seen steady growth in the vineyard and have both learned a lot about this microclimate.

Educational break

- Macroclimate: The macroclimate broadly defines the climate of a region.
- Mesoclimate: The climate of a site as influenced by elevation, aspect, slope or distances from large bodies of water.
- Microclimate: Climate conditions that take place in small, localised, specific areas, for example a single vineyard in a larger region or appellation. This could even be the climate conditions in the canopy of the vines!

Our vines will lose their leaves soon and go dormant soon.

1. Dormancy – starting in December. From leaf fall following harvest to the beginning of growth in spring, grapevines are dormant, and look like woody twigs. Not a lot happens within the plant during this winter period. But we will be busy during this time with pruning. We will cut back the previous year's canes and the best canes selected to grow new shoots.

2. Bleeding and budbreak

Sap will start flowing out of pruning cuts – known as 'bleeding' – which lets you know that budbreak will be soon, the beginning of the lifecycle of the vine. The first buds are sensitive, which is why spring frosts in the UK can be scary.

3. Shoot and leaf growth

New shoots will grow fast as temperatures warm. Frost remains a risk, as it could return the shoots to a dormant state.

4. Flowering and fruit set

The summer sun will help form flower clusters, which will eventually bloom. These flowers are known as 'perfect flowers', as they pollinate themselves without the need for bees. Then berries form (called fruit set) and we will hope for good weather during that time as too much rain can cause problems that will impact the harvest size and quality down the line.

5. Veraison and ripening

Veraison starts, where the green berries change colour and ripen. The chlorophyll green disappears, and each variety reveals its actual colour. White varieties become yellow and red varieties go from green to a purplish blue, depending on the variety. After veraison, the seeds are fully formed, acidity is still high and sugar levels low. This is when green harvest could happen, when you pick some of the grapes to get rid of so the plant can solely focus on a certain amount. That means that more nutrients go to fewer plants, equally better quality.

6. Harvest

Once the grapes are fully ripened, it's time for them to be harvested. We will hand pick.

7. Post-harvest

While grapes won't continue to ripen once picked, grapevines leaves will continue to photosynthesise after harvest if temperatures are warm enough. This is an important period for the plant, as it allows it to accumulate carbohydrates for future growth. As temperatures fall, vines gradually become more accustomed to the cold, and sugars are converted to starch to be stored for the winter, mostly in roots and trunks. After leaf fall, vines continue to acclimate to cold weather, but no more carbohydrate accumulation occurs, and eventually the plant hunkers down into dormancy for the winter. Which I fear is what I may do too but I think I will be storing carbs!

Wine around the Cotswolds:

I stopped in at Phoenix wines in Cirencester and bought two delicious Gamay's.

- One from the Beaujolais region in France: 2020 Domaine Romey Les Pierres Dorees and about £13 a bottle
- One from the Loire Region in France: 2018 Domaine Oudart Touraine about £12 a bottle

I like their little shop and it is convenient when we are at the downtown market fetching tasty snacks and fish from the fresh fish guy.

Wine Column

I also recently stopped into Daylesford when friends were in town. I was surprised to see that they turned their old potting building into a new wine cellar, selling wines from around the world.

If you need a pumpkin for your pumpkin pie, reach out! Or share a glass of wine? Autumn is the perfect time for both.

The Kilkeney
Inn

We have certainly been working hard to put this lovely old Inn back on the map, it has been totally refurbished inside and I have revamped and replanted the garden too. The patio is a real joy of floral loveliness in the Spring & Summer months.

The atmosphere inside is warm and relaxed and Kev has created a superb Menu which has "County-Living" influences. We have a good range of Wines & Ales that complement the quality ingredients used in the kitchen.

We both look forward to welcoming you to The Kilkeney Inn.
